

You need a watch for day and evening, but only have the cash for one? Simple: buy two straps...

OBJECTS OF DESIRE

Double time

ROLEX
1978 Oyster Perpetual
Day £2,350, with steel bracelet.
Night Leather strap: £75.
The Oyster with a steel bracelet will make a real statement in the office. Then switch to a patent croc strap for dinner in the evening.
vintagewatchcompany.com

IWC
Flieger
Day £3,150.
Night Leather strap: £170.
A classic pilot's watch (waterproof to 30m with an anti-magnetic case and 44-hour power reserve) that's perfectly elegant when paired with a leather strap.
thewatchgallery.co.uk

TAG HEUER
Carrera Automatic Chronometer Tachymeter
Day £1,695
Night Calfskin strap: £125.
Made for the gentleman racer. Use the tachymeter inscribed around the rim to calculate your average speed.
goldsmiths.co.uk

EBEL
1911 BTR 137
Day £3,650
Night Alligator strap: £100.
Ebel is known for its delicate timepieces, so this testosterone-fuelled chrono, with yellow stitching to match the second hand, is a welcome departure.
ebel.com

LONGINES
Conquest Ceramic
Day £1,200
Night Leather strap: £105.
Longines' classic sports watch has a scratch-resistant ceramic bezel and is water-resistant to 200m. Pair it with a leather strap for a seriously sophisticated evening look.
longines.co.uk

PANERAI
Luminor Marina Automatic
Day £4,250
Night Alligator strap: £180.
An extremely tough watch in a brushed titanium case, it is waterproof to a depth of 300m.
panerai.com
Photograph by Leo Acker