

2005 FILM SPECIAL

Esquire

NOVEMBER 2005 | $3.95

INSTYLE WATCH SPECIAL

Kill Bill Vol 2

2004

As The Bride (Uma Thurman) lines up for pregnancy tests on her Rolex Cosmograph Daytona, below, Helen Mirren assassinates the hotel-room door agent and it waters to do the same to Thurman. Luckily when the test comes out positive, Mirren goes with sweet "Congratulations!"

1975 Rolex Oyster Cosmograph Daytona, $18,800. Enquiries: The Vintage Watch Company (020 7499 2032)

Nick of Time

2002

Real-time thriller in which Johnny Depp's Gene Watson, below, is given a gun and 90 minutes in which to kill a politician and thereby save his daughter's life. (Did someone mention Jack Bauer?) Our much-watched chad of the Soko Quartz Soko Gents' Evening Watch, $990. Enquiries: 0870 700 0888

Scene stealers

Clockwatching Hollywood-style, from 90 tense minutes to 50+ (very) long years

The Ladykillers

2003

As Sir Alec Guinness takes one of his most memorable roles in the wondrously funny swansong from the Ealing Studios era, Guinness's villain plots to murder the elderly who discover their robbery among their criminal activities by his Tissot watch, above.

Tissot Heritage Limited Solstice Chronometer, £665. Enquiries: 02300 646 825

Pulp Fiction

2001

The young Butch (Bruce Willis) learns about his family heirloom, a gold Rolex which first his father then Captain Woono (Christopher Walken, above) had for seven years at a POW camp. "Five long years, he was the watch up there," Woono explains. "Then, when he died of dysentery, he gave me the watch."

1834 Rolex Five Gold Officer's Watch, £3,800. Enquiries: The Vintage Watch Company, as above.